ELIOT HIRSCH -

To Miss Mattie B. Lacy in appreciation of her devotion to her classes, her unwearied patience with her individual pupils, and her earnest coöperation in outside activities, the Class of 1929 respectfully dedicates this book.

ELIOT MIRSCH -

May this book, when its pages are are turned in future years, bring to your mind
a satisfying remembrance of the all too short years spent at Oak Park High School.

ELIOT HIRSCH -

With the completion of the High School's Fieldhouses, an art motif depicting the athletic side of Classical life was found particularly fitting this year.

Other phases of that life suggested by the nature of the school's Clubs is found in the section devoted to those activities.

Ability and Stability

ROGER BABSON, the great statistician, says that all of the leadership and initiative in our country is bound up in two per cent of the people. If he is right, I suspect that most of us are only ordinary people. This suspicion was borne out during the War when 1,700,000 picked men took the intelligence test given the American Army. Only about four per cent of them reached the highest grade. Most of us then have the same problem that Theodore Roosevelt had, to make the most of ordinary abilities, to make the most of our best.

When Colonel Goethals was chosen to dig the Panama Canal he did not have a brilliant record as an engineer, but he was chosen for his loyalty to his work, his trustworthiness, and his determination of character.

Thousands have puttered away in the laboratory, but the hard-working Roentgen investigated. When asked, "What did you think when you saw the cardboard glowing?" he replied, "I did not just think; I investigated." His investigations, carried on with great patience and skill, gave us the X-ray.

A London dispatch says: "A cold bitter gale today had no terrors for Helen Wills who practiced for more than an hour on the outdoor tennis courts of the Queens club." Chick Evans used to be on the golf course every morning, rain or shine, while his neighbors were still in bed.

John Wanamaker was one of America's best examples of a public-spirited and successful merchant. His biographer says the success of his mature years was but a result of adherence to the ideals of his boyhood, industry and integrity.

Probably neither Eckersall nor Red Grange will ever have on the campus a monument to their brilliant playing, but the friends of Dave Hansen have erected at his Alma Mater a memorial tablet with this inscription: "He played four years on the scrubs, but he never quit."

Hundreds of other boys of ordinary ability grew up in Milan, Ohio, and were interested in trains and the telegraph, but Thomas Alvah Edison, "Al" as he was then called, was enthusiastically interested. Although we now call him a wizard and consider him a great genius, he himself defines genius as two per cent inspiration and ninety-eight per cent perspiration. He worked ten years on his storage battery before he was satisfied with it and he worked on the moving picture machine over thirty years.

No one of these was successful because he was more brilliant than others. No one of them believed that work was a curse given to us because of Adam's disobedience. No one of them won success suddenly, but after continued steadiness of purpose and firmness of character.

M. R. McDANIEL.

TOM POWERS, '29

Step I

The Raw Material

PRECISELY as it had been doing for thousands and thousands of years, the sun rose up one bright September morn, away back in Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-five, and impolitely grinned.

In deep and awestruck ranks there stood awaiting entrance before the doors of our noble institution of education a motley assemblage of the freshest of fresh Freshmen, green but ambitious, inexperienced but promising, unsifted but containing genius, a sort of student ore as it were—the future class of '29.

Numerous and assorted they were, some tall and gawky with big ears, some wee and wide-eyed and scared-faced, and some medium-sized, who felt rather mean at being so ordinary. A number of the gayer buds wore weird-colored sweaters and big, brave, baggy balloon pants and were tremendously proud and a little self-conscious of their distinction. Some there were who had resolved to come prepared and these fairly bristled with tablets, assorted pencils, and seventy-nine cent fountain pens, and, to top it all off, there was the usual and inevitable number of brief-case carriers, may heaven have mercy on their kind!

Take us all in all, we were a likely lot—small wonder the sun grinned.

Those first days and weeks of gradually clearing confusion made an impression on us which has proven indelible. Everything was new and different; keeping things in a locker, going from class to class by a bell, "five mornings at 8:05," having to battle for our lunch, all were a departure from what we had known before. Impossible as it may sound now, The Trapeze was new to us then, and the Honor Roll was a thing we had to accustom ourselves to hear talked about. Assemblies, clubs, activities, things which are tradition now, were utterly bewildering to us at that tender stage of our career.

Slowly but surely we became settled. We still almost revered the distant Senior, but he no longer completely terrorized us with his glare—nay, some of our bolder young bucks actually dared to glare back—when he wasn't looking. Months passed. We found teachers to be, as a rule, kind but insistent, and our supervisors, whose work it is to refine the raw material, did their duty gently but firmly.

Some of us joined Latin Club and sang "Gaudiamus Igitur" and stalked about Room 212 clad in sheets, gibbering back and forth the while in broken Latin, while others cast their lot with Science and proceeded to investigate everything from carbon dioxide to frog's legs. Still others, sturdy souls! suffered the tortures of the Freshman football candidate and were nightly barked at by vicious coaches and trampled upon and buffeted about to the extent that they creaked aloud the next day when they moved.

More months passed; we began to realize by certain "infallible" signs that we were becoming accustomed to it all. The "Knights of the Extended Plate," those bean, bun, and butter boys who daily invaded the lunch room, were no longer the timid children of September and could, by this time, sing out, "Mashed, macaroni and beans!" with a gusto which was inspiring, while those who were taking manual training had learned to positively love the smell of burnt glue and rancid banana oil. Yea verily, 'twas a gay life.

June came at last. The edge had worn off. We had had our first taste, and it was tart but decidedly pleasing.

Step II

A Process of Violent Reaction and Effervescent Melting Down

In the brief months of rest and recreation which now passed in fleeting succession, we underwent a rapid but complete evolution in attitude, so that when the leaves again began to fall and once more we trod these locker-lined hallways, our air of nonchalance and ownership was complete and refreshing. Under the stress of the realization that we were actually returning to school as high and mighty Sophomores, we contracted that most dreadful of diseases, "Sophoid Fever," a frightful malady, in the fell grip of which the victim bursts out violently in barbarism.

The rest of the school probably got a big chuckle out of us, but like all Sophomores, we took ourselves quite seriously.

We talked tolerantly now of the "Frosh," and we smiled sympathetically, nay, almost paternally, as we watched him pass on his bewildered way. Ours was an attitude of unconventionalism. We walked about school in our shirt sleeves, whenever the weather furnished the least excuse for such untoward conduct until some cruel teacher with a glitter in her eye that meant action would say, "Archibald, button up that collar and roll down those sleeves, or get out of my class!" You'd be surprised how amiable we could be on such occasions.

So it went. Every morning we stumped heavily up three long flights of stairs and gazed out of our desk room windows over leafy acres of tossing treetops, quite the highest things in the whole building were we. Airily we breezed about from class to study hall to class, and blustered through days and weeks and months of parties and dances and all kinds of good times. Whatever drawbacks the Sophomore may have, he always manages to lead a hilarious life.

Nevertheless our very efficient supervisors managed to keep us bridled to the extent that our studies didn't suffer and we slowly came back to normal again without any serious loss of life or property.

Now, the more energetic element began to look around for outside activities. History Club enrolled a number of these while others flocked to Tatlers and those who believed "the play's the thing," joined Masqueraders' ranks.

Another important event was the election of our one and only class officer—a cheerleader. After some perfectly uproarious tryouts, Fletcher Knebel was chosen to hold down the single page allotted to the Class of '29 in the Senior Annual.

By this time, between our studies, which had grown stiffer with the passing months and our expanding interests in clubs and sports, we were finding little time for making merry (or Mary, either, for that matter). So the spirit of whoopee departed from our young bosoms and a new and encouraging look of dignity descended upon our brows, and almost before we knew it, summer had rolled around again—our Sophomore days were done.

Step III

Stage of Advanced Molding and Development

Another vacation passed, another September came, and our fair class began its Junior year. We now entered into the realization of two years' hopes and aspirations. It hardly seemed possible that we were now honest-to-goodness, dyed-in-wool upperclassmen, stalking about at ease and at home in the heretofore revered second-floor corridors, where we used to tread with awe, our ears sunk down between our shoulderblades for fear our superiors would notice us.

A long list of clubs welcomed us now with open arms. Fellows of an argumentative trend of mind sought Burke or Lincoln and proceeded to wrangle for the rest of their high-school days as to which was the more desirable club; yes, and some of the remarks they make about each other are positively catty. Forum was open to girls with a similar taste for mental battle, and Drama held its tryouts where we spoke our little pieces before cold-blooded judges, with hope in our hearts, and our hearts in our mouths. Scribblers enrolled a long list of those wild-eyed boys who wield the spluttering pen, while almost every really soulful girl joined Story Club and devoted hours to writing positively throbbing poetry about "groping through the lowering darkness after the gleam that flickers!" and all that sort of mush.

Now came the big event of the semester, the Football Dance, where Wee Willie Huskey (who really isn't wee at all) was disclosed, with appropriate pomp, as the leader-to-be of our 1928 football team.

Next on our crowded program came class elections. Wallace Carrithers was chosen to pilot our Ship of Class throughout the year, with Faith Ralph as his vice-president, Barbara Braun as secretary, and Mary John Vaughn as color bearer. George Phillip Heidler was given the part of playing Silas Marner to the class funds, and right nobly he did his duty. Then last, but we assure you far from least, Tommy Roberts, in the full and rosy bloom of his youth, was elected to lead us in our rare and rollicking class yell.

About this time a group of dark-browed, furtive-eyed, close-mouthed members of our class began to assemble behind closed doors with the ever efficient Miss Remsburg in charge. And sometimes you might hear low mutterings issuing forth, or maybe muffled wailing, and folks said something awful was going on in there—but, no, it was only the beginning of another bigger and better Prom Stunt. Weeks and weeks of song and fun and work ensued—weeks we won't soon forget, of learning sprightly little dance steps, of making friends and making whoopee. You just can't imagine how folks get along in something like a Prom Stunt. The girls get so they aren't at all huffy and all the boys become downright jovial after five or six days, so that everybody has a grand time. Finally, everything was rounded into shape, the big night came around, the curtain parted, and the song and plot aboard Captain Craft's good ship "Mal de Mer" proceeded merrily to the heartily expressed approval of the Seniors. Then followed the dance, perfect in every respect, with the gym, hardly recognizable in its decorations, transformed into a Japanese garden. And when it was all over and we wearily, but happily, wended our way to home and bed, we realized that one of the most enjoyable seasons of our high-school career was over. Truly, Prom-time is the summer-time of Junior year.

A few more weeks, and again we were free to vacate for another three months.

Step IV

The Final Assembling and Burnishing—The Finished Product Emerges

Senior year! The time when we did things we'd always dreamed of doing, when we came and went just as we pleased and were the pride and envy of all the other classes. Best of all, we were deliciously conscious of our superiority. We were the cream of the school now, the mainspring of activities, in short, the last word, and we basked in the dazzling light of it all until we were sunburned.

We returned to school to find that a number of very decided changes had taken place in the old order of things. First, two brand new, completely equipped, guaranteed, sport-model field-houses had grown up across the street, to and from which, droves and droves of boys and girls with flying coat tails and watersoaked heads now scamper between every period. "Oh, but how about the old gym?" you ask. Take out the big blue handkerchief, ye kind and sympathetic lovers of tradition and bear the blow bravely. Alas! where formerly wee, white clad figures skipped blithely to and fro, gathering bumps and floor burns, now walk hungry, carnivorous multitudes of tray-bearing students; the old lunch room is no more, its space now occupied by quiet, orderly recitation rooms. With bared head and welling eye we mourn its passing. Such, children, is the march of progress.

A new and spacious supervisors' office, and nine periods instead of eight, as in previous years, completed the list of surprises, and we settled down to schedule with enthusiasm.

Again we elected class officers with George Heidler heading the list as president and with Bill Huskey helping him out. Barbara Braun was again elected secretary, while Wallace Carrithers was chosen to keep watch and ward over the shekels. Then, to complete the list, Thomas B. Roberts, Jr., not quite so youthful as before, but every bit as rosy, once more became our cheer leader.

Clubs now opened up in full blast. Lincoln chose Harry Johnson as its president, and Burke put its faith in the tousle-headed Louis Gusler. Parrish Riker became Forum's leader, Drama Club saw red and elected Bob Mahnke, and Faith Ralph was chosen Girls' Club president. The numerous other organizations made choices equally as edifying and all entered into most successful seasons.

Mr. Gehlmann selected as his Trap editors three big men about school and three big—I beg your pardon, three charming, talented, and efficient young ladies. Grace Beezley was editor of the new all-literary Tabula and Wally Carrithers is editor-in-chief of this year's Senior Annual.

The next event of importance was the Girls' Club Show, "The Charm School," in which John Ryde, as Austin Bevans, learned to love Elizabeth Smith, who was Elise Benedotti. The rest of the cast fairly reeked with genius, including as it did the illustrious Benjamin Ayers Wolcott; so, all in all, the play was a roaring success.

Now the Football Dance was again at hand with everyone having the gayest kind of a time. When the stunt came off Kenny Meenan, the new captain-elect, was superb in his part as the mysterious bundle, and as per usual the punch was simply killing.

About this time we began to think of our class gift. Accordingly we engaged the Goodman Theater Company to give the play, "Dear Brutus," in our assembly hall and thus scholarship cups for future classes to strive for and trophy cases for future generations to gaze at were assured.

The class play this year was a triumph. James Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella," was put on under the ever skillful direction of Miss Payne with Elizabeth Smith and Sara Sherwood playing the part of Cinderella to perfection and both Henry Finlay and Wilson Connell admirably cast as the Policemen. When the final curtain was drawn, the roar of complete approval from the audience only noised the general opinion, "It was perfect."

Following the Saturday performance was the annual Senior banquet, which in turn was followed by a take-off on the play, a roaring bit of farce which kept us in convulsions of merriment until it was over.

The Prom arrived almost before we had time to get settled again. The stunt came off in great style with the usual number of subtle personal digs. We won't mention names, but it is rumored that you could fairly hear some people's flesh crawl that night.

This, then, was the beginning of the end. Clubs held their fond farewell meetings, the last "Trap" was published, the 1929 Annual went to press, and now, as spring is mellowing into summer, we realize that it's over—all over.

Just as has been its habit through countless ages, the sun will set tonight, and to millions and millions of people it will mean just another sunset. But to us, as that great golden ball sinks slowly to rest, lighting the deep clear blue of the sky with the warm orange of its fire, it will mean the end of a thrilling four years that have passed as a day—it will mean the sunset of our high-school career.

Class Poem

By WALTER HOLDEN

*Out of the canyon of Yesterday,
Out of the deep gorge the river plunges,
Over the waterfall of Today
Into the valley of Tomorrow.*

In the deep canyon the sun has set;
An osprey that has soared all day
Has settled on a crag.
The shadows cast
By jagged granite peaks
Are lengthening in the cedar-carpeted valley;
The river slides over a ledge of rock
And falls——

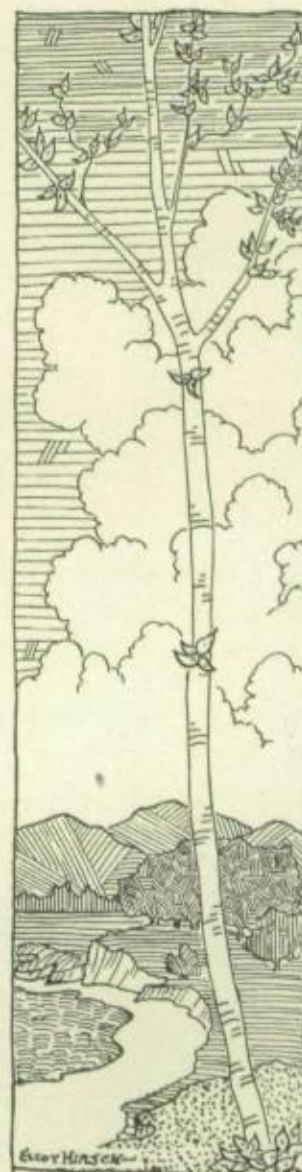

In green, secluded pools the trout hang motionless.
Where rocks are mossy from the moisture of the mist,

The wind,
Catching the beaten spray,
Whirls it upward in a cloud
Of white-winged butterflies.

Across the valley, yet touched with gold,
The river winds away,
Now wide and unconfined
By cliffs that until now
Have guarded it:
Its banks are but the gentle, rolling hills
It has forsaken the ways
Of swirling mountain streams;
Calm now, and broad——

The gold melts and slips into the shadows.
The wind hides behind the mountains,
And in the twilight of the stars
A coyote's note,
Like filtering smoke
From some forgotten campfire,
Rises and floats, a slender wisp
Upon the air of night.

*Out of the canyon of Yesterday,
Out of the high-walled canyon it plunges,
Over the waterfall of Today
Into the valley of Tomorrow.*

The Photographic Staff is said to photograph the entire book. This statement in itself sounds like an easy task but gives no idea of its immensity, nor of the after school hours spent by the staff in taking and developing many pictures.

The great number of pictures include the beautiful scenics in the front of the book, the photographs of underclass officers, the snapshots of students, and pictures of clubs. In fact every picture except those of the seniors and of the faculty have been contributed by the Photographic Staff.

The "Annual" is a memory book of the year's activities, and we have attempted to incorporate as many pictures as possible of these activities into our book. The Photographic Staff has been an invaluable aid to the "Annual" staff in compiling this year's Tabula, and we extend our grateful thanks to them for the work they have done this year.

PURPOSE

THE Student Council is composed of six Seniors, two retained from the Junior year, and four elected from the Senior class, two Juniors, two Sophomores, and two Freshmen appointed by the Faculty. Its object is to promote friendship and co-operation among the students, and to provide a group of students to act as an influence toward student government.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The Student Council has carried out a more definite plan of activities this year than has been followed in former times. The members of the Council, by meeting regularly every week, have been able to carry out an active program.

The most notable achievement of the year which the Council managed was the work of the Student Aid Committee. This committee was organized for the purpose of directing and controlling students in the school lunch room. Some members of the committee were also stationed in the halls to regulate the students who left the building at noon. The Student Aid Committee has carried on its work very successfully this year, and promises to become a permanent high school organization.

In the midst of the football season, the Student Council sponsored the famous "Oppo" Assembly, an assembly which keyed up enthusiasm and spirit for the rest of the football games.

When Valentine Day approached the Council again carried on the Near East Relief Drive, an annual event sponsored by members of the organization.

With the coming of Spring, the Council adopted the problem of securing student co-operation in beautifying the School grounds. Two assemblies were held, one for underclassmen, one for upperclassmen, in which the students were approached on this subject. The entire student body agreed to support the Council in its undertaking and carried out their agreement satisfactorily.

The Student Council entered into other and varied activities this year. A song committee was established for the purpose of encouraging students to write new school songs. Several songs were submitted, of which the best were selected. The Council also visited various schools during the year with the idea of utilizing some of the ideas gained by these visits. The Student Council has attempted to carry on its activities on a much larger scale this year, and its weekly meetings have been a great asset in carrying out this program.

SMOKING COUNCIL was founded in 1921 at a time when prominent members of the Senior Class felt the need of connecting good athletics, good health, and better school spirit by means of a restriction prohibiting smoking within a certain area about school.

The Council is made up of four Seniors, two Juniors, and two Sophomores. The upperclass members are elected by the boys, while the Sophomores are picked by the Supervisors.

The powers of this Council are practically unlimited. The procedure in case of offense is as follows: A warning usually follows the first offense. For second offense the offender's name is conspicuously posted on the Black List. If this warning is not effective the Council may give nights after school, require that the offender raise his grades, or, in extreme cases, suspend him.

There has been wholehearted co-operation with the Council this year and consequently there have been few offenses within the prescribed two block radius.

STUDENT AID COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Student Aids

THE Student Council has very definitely tried to serve the school this year and live up to its name. More than ever before it has taken charge in the various phases of school life that can be profitably controlled by the student body. One of its biggest problems has been the organization of a Student Aid Body to keep order throughout the lunch periods.

This last year the new lunch room has made necessary the changing of lunch room hours and rules. In previous years the lunch room has been up on the third floor in what is now the commercial department and everyone has eaten at once. However, as the school began to grow, supervisors and teachers realized that these rooms would soon be too crowded and the equipment would not be sufficient. Consequently, when the new Field House was built, the old boys' gym was turned into a lunch room, and ever since then the students have been served in a most pleasant and efficient manner.

In order to avoid the large crowds in the lunch room and to cut out a great deal of confusion, the lunch period was cut in two and one-half of the students ate during the fifth period and the other half during the sixth. That meant that while some were eating, others would be having classes. If the students were allowed to roam around the halls as usual during lunch hour, there was a great chance that the natural noise and disturbances would make the fifth and sixth hour classes rather unsuccessful.

First of all Mr. McDaniel had a door cut in the back of the stage leading into the large assembly hall and requested that all students eating in school should go right from the lunch room into the assembly and study 'till the bell rang, then too, he asked all the students who ate away from school to stay off the school grounds 'till the bell rang and so keep the outside noises from the class rooms.

In the beginning teachers took charge of enforcing these requests, but soon the Student Council realized it could be of help and so took over the whole plan. It organized a special committee to take charge of this with Miss Weckel as advisor and Elizabeth Hughes as chairman. The whole situation was carefully thought out and finally about sixty reliable students were asked to help. They were stationed at all the outside doors to keep students in and out, at the lunch room doors to keep order in the lines, in the assembly hall and in the main corridors. To insure them of authority, special badges were ordered for their use during the period they worked. These badges were orange and blue and bore the letters S. A. In order to insure quick and efficient work, the Student Aids were allowed to go to the head of the lunch lines for food so that they might get to their positions as soon as possible. They worked in half period shifts, about thirty in a period.

The work was by no means compulsory, in fact most of those on duty considered it an honor to aid the school in this way. The student body has caused very little trouble and the Council wishes to thank both the aids and the students for their co-operation. Much credit for their success is due to Elizabeth Hughes for her willing and careful chairmanship.

Girl Scouts Troop 14 was organized in the Spring of 1926 by Mrs. E. L. Marsh, the Local Director. In the Fall of 1927 the leadership of the troop was taken over by Miss Jeannette Magowan. The troop was organized in order that the girls graduating from grade school would graduate into a High School Troop where there would be girls of their own age and with like interests. The membership of the troop increased from twelve to sixty-five in three years. For the first time in a period of five years in the Oak Park district, three Golden Eaglets were awarded at the Red Geranium Rally. The girls upon whom this high honor was conferred are Margaret Kasley, Charlotte Sloan, and Betty Wolcott. For some time Miss Magowan has been ably assisted in the leadership of the troop by Mrs. Arthur M. Houser, Jr., Mrs. A. Sampson and Mrs. Hoppenjans.

Heavyweight Football

The heavyweight football team of 1928 started the season with less chance of success than probably any team in the history of the school. The squad rounded into shape slowly, as it was handicapped by serious early season injuries. At times the eleven showed flashes of real power, but it was unable to maintain a consistent game. After dropping the first two games, the team suddenly came to life, and smothered Moline 27 to 0. A week later they defeated Morton 19 to 0. Seemingly bound for a successful season the heavies encountered their two most powerful opponents. They were defeated by Evanston 6 to 0, and on the following Saturday lost to New Trier 19 to 0. Both the Evanston and New Trier teams were spoken of as the best in the history of their schools. Oak Park tied Proviso 6 to 6 in the big game of the year. Our touchdown was made after a spectacular march down the field. Elgin defeated an indifferent Oak Park team in the last game 32 to 0.

Next year promises a team of more power than that of last fall. Captain-elect Meenan, Lovett, Cotsworth, Johnson, Lavicka, and Emerson, will form an experienced group around whom a strong eleven may well be formed.

Lightweight Football

The 1928 lightweights experienced a very successful season, winning five and losing one game. This was accomplished principally by virtue of an excellent defense. This fact is best shown by the low scores, which, with the exception of the final game, always found the right side of the ledger.

The lights started the season auspiciously by downing Bowen 21 to 6, and two weeks later defeated Morton 7 to 6 in one of the hardest fought games of the year. A strong New Trier team next fell before the conquering lights by a 7 to 0 score, and Mooseheart was beaten 8 to 0. The Proviso lights, who had remained undefeated for three years, then fell victims to Oak Park, 2 to 0. Oak Park made a stubborn fight during the first half of the Elgin game, but weakened in the last half and were defeated 27 to 7.

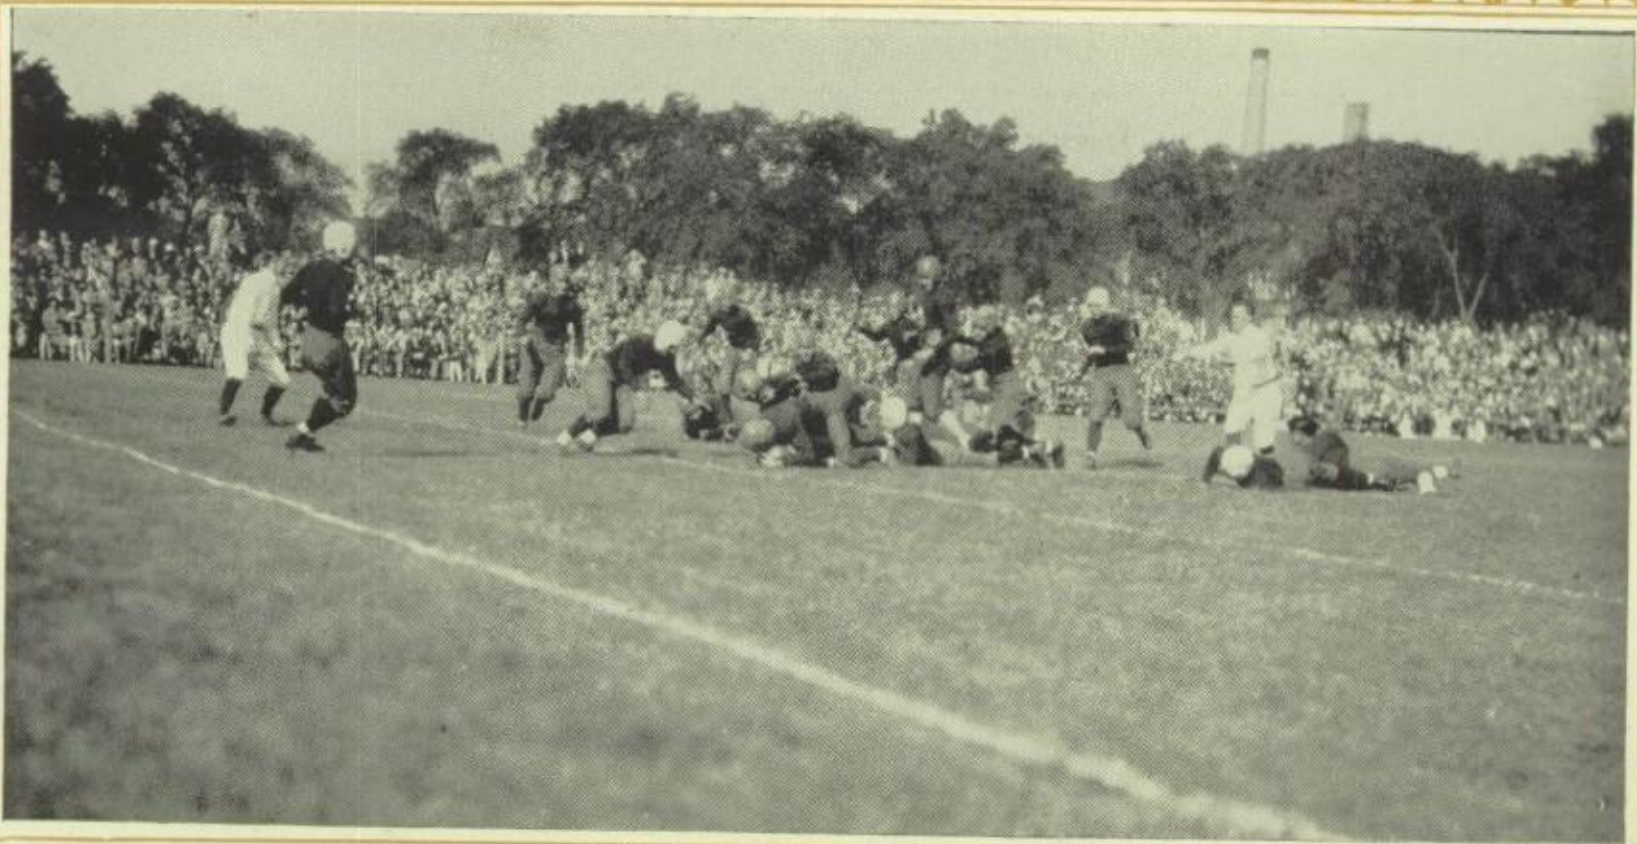

The results of the games were, in general, a true indication of the strength of the Oak Park team and of its opponents, as the scores were the results of real football and not of breaks.

Heavyweight Basketball

A heavyweight basketball team entirely devoid of veterans was much more successful than was expected. Not only the players, but Coach Winters also should be complimented for the fine showing of the team. Although beaten in a number of early season engagements, the team came back to defeat several of the best teams of the Suburban League.

Of ten Suburban League games Oak Park won five and lost five. In addition the heavies played three non-league games of which they won two.

Oak Park dropped the first two games of the season, and although they made a great fight in the third game against Morton, they succumbed 35 to 32. The team then rallied to defeat Deerfield 35 to 24, and avenged a former defeat by beating La Grange 32 to 29. Oak Park bowed to New Trier 23 to 20, but showed decided improvement. Finding their real stride, the heavies squelched Proviso 28 to 20. Although they were leading by three points until the last two minutes, Oak Park's defense cracked, and Morton eked out a 19 to 17 win. Oak Park swamped Deerfield 42 to 21 and trounced Whiting, Ind., 31 to 21. By fine floor play and good shooting the heavies defeated New Trier 27 to 22 in the last game of the season.

Several major letter men will be available for next year's team which promises to be as good as that of '29.

Although our lightweight basketball team had no veterans, they decisively proved that they hailed from Oak Park; for when we were not winning games we were giving victorious opposition in some of the hottest battles waged on Suburban League courts. The season proceeded in a most symmetrical fashion. Practically without exception we won two games and then dropped the third.

In the season's opener the lights defeated La Grange 27 to 22. We beat Proviso 20 to 15, but both teams played terrible basketball. Finding it impossible to penetrate Morton's defense our morale broke under a shower of baskets—score 41 to 13.

We worked off the stigma of defense on Deerfield and La Grange to the tune of 23 to 15 and 33 to 19, respectively. The Deerfield affair proved to be a house warming as it was the first basketball game ever played on our new court in the field house. Our "third game jinx" worked again when New Trier's championship quintet nosed us out 16 to 15 by sinking a free throw on a technical foul with seconds to go.

Proviso was again mastered easily 21 to 14, and Evanston succumbed 20 to 18 after one of the most thrill-packed games ever seen at Oak Park. The ominous "third game jinx" appeared once more when Evanston avenged itself 25 to 15. Morton was shown that Oak Park could fight when they were conquered 19 to 17 in as thrilling a game as one could wish to witness. Deerfield was next set down 23 to 15. We dropped a non-league game to Whiting, Ind., heavy-weight reserves, 28 to 14. In our last game, New Trier proved themselves champions by winning 23 to 11.

Much credit is due to Coach Foster for his untiring work and he and his team are to be congratulated on taking third place in the Suburban League standing.

Track

OAK PARK'S new Field House was probably the greatest single factor in the development of one of the most powerful and well-balanced track teams the school has ever produced. Through the agency of the Field House the squad was able to condition itself earlier than usual, which advantage was borne out in the results of the meets of which Oak Park won all but one, the Northwestern Inter-scholastics, in which we placed second.

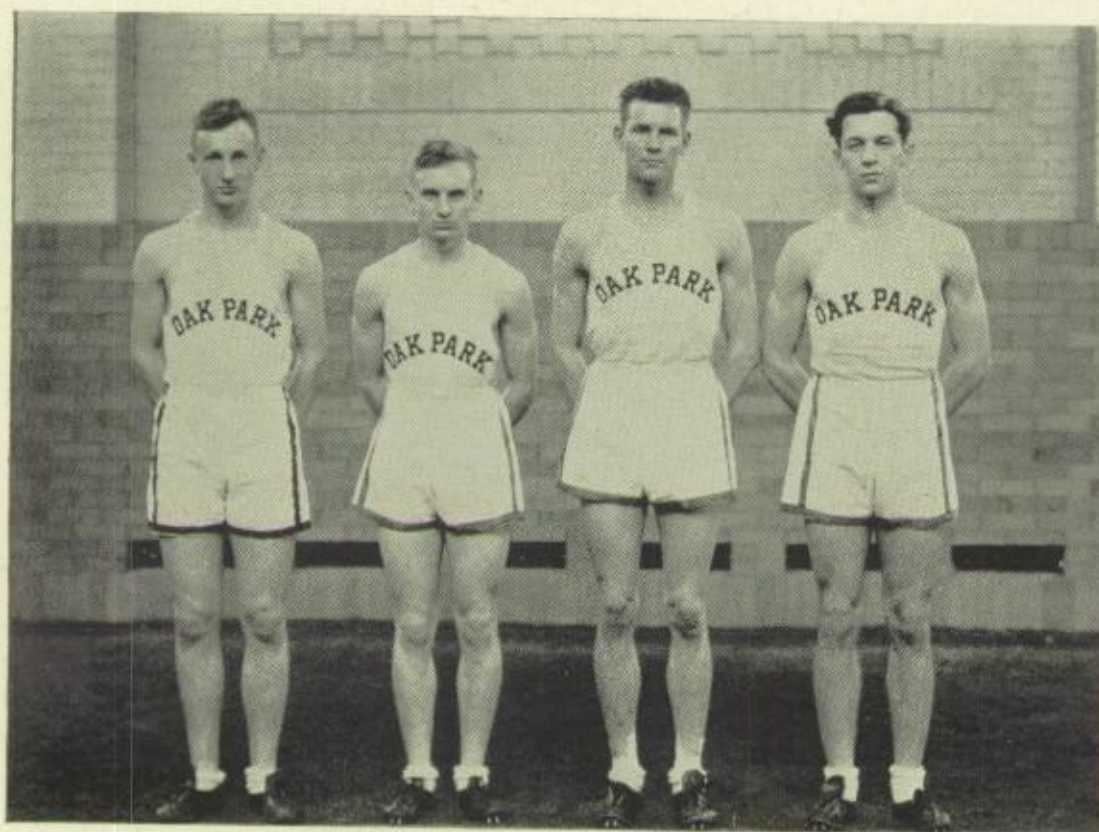

Our team ran wild over Austin and triumphed 65-24. Proviso next fell victims of Oak Park's fleet tracksters to the tune of 77-10. In this latter meet Frank MacLeod finished his high school career in a blaze of glory by winning three first places. In the triangular meet with Morton and New Trier, Oak Park smothered her two rivals. Score: Oak Park, 65; New Trier, 35; Morton, 9. At the Suburban League meet, also held in the new Field House, Oak Park crashed through to a championship by amassing 45½ points. The nearest competitor, New Trier, was 20½ points behind. Five new Field House records fell, the most spectacular of which was Skelly's magnificent pole vault of 11 feet, 10 inches.

At the Illinois Relay Carnival our championship quartet met with one of the toughest breaks imaginable. In the middle of the race in which we were leading, the baton was dropped. Despite the fact that six or seven precious seconds were lost thereby, we pulled in fourth. When our team entered the Northwestern Interscholastics, we placed second with 13 points. Skelly, Rockwell and our relay team placed for Oak Park.

At the Iowa Relays, Oak Park ran away with the meet for the third successive time. Skelly broke his pole vault record by vaulting 12 ft. 1¼ in. at this meet.

Despite the bad weather at Madison, Oak Park got second in the Sixth Annual Midwest Relays. Rockwell and the mile relay team winning their respective events. We got seconds in the sprint relay, and sprint medley, third in the half mile relay and fourth in the pole vault.

Oak Park has had a wonderful team and a wonderful season, and we are proud of them. Much credit goes to Mr. Ticktin, Coach, and Mr. Woodruff, his assistant and also to Co-Captains, Novak and Rockwell.

THE SWIMMING POOL

Although this is the first year the swimming team has had its own tank in which to practice, the Oak Park natators made an excellent record. Every man on the team worked hard, and from a start that was late as well as slow, the team rounded into fighting trim with amazing speed and success. After having suffered a number of early season defeats the team advanced from last place in the Suburban League to second place.

The Junior swimming team made a fine showing during the entire season, and proved itself a worthy foe for every team it met. In two meets with Evanston and Deerfield respectively, it lost by the extremely narrow margin of one point, while in most of the other meets it came out on top. In the future this Junior outfit will doubtless form the backbone of a championship aggregation.

On every team there are always some outstanding men, and this one was no exception. In the Senior division Golder ably represented our school in the one hundred yard free style, and was substantially backed by Lennox in the breast stroke, Stewart in the back stroke, and Cadle in the fifty yard free style and diving. The outstanding Juniors were Erikson in the free style, Johnson in the free style and back stroke, and Williams in the breast stroke. Two other members of the team, who though not in the public eye, were nevertheless invaluable to the team, were Perkins and McManus. Perkins, the team manager, has been a great aid to Mr. Smith because of his ability to handle routine work. McManus has spent a great deal of time arranging line-ups and coaching the other fellows. On the whole the team has made an excellent record, and Mr. Smith and the school may be proud of its success.

Soccer

Despite the fact that it was only their second season of play, the Soccer team made a very good showing last fall. Many of last year's men turned out for practice and new players were recruited. Robert Fisher was elected captain, and, by his sterling leadership plus the excellent coaching of Mr. Wood, a successful season was experienced.

Out of eight games played, Oak Park won three, tied two and lost three. Our opponents scored twelve goals in the course of the season to Oak Park's nine. Against schools which have had soccer teams for many years we believe this to be a very creditable record.

Realizing that their fine showing was possible only through his splendid efforts, the team gives full credit to Coach Wood. The prospects for the Spring season seem to indicate that an experienced team will take the field, and will even exhibit an improved brand of play.

Boys' Field House

WITH the completion of the new physical education buildings, Oak Park High School has taken another forward step. After years of planning and waiting, they are at last complete and in use. Compared to the cramped quarters which the athletic and physical education departments were formerly obliged to occupy the new units are veritable Utopias. A journey through the Boys' Field House reveals many interesting things.

As we enter the imposing lobby, on either hand is an alcove suitable for some piece of statuary. Ascending the broad flight of steps immediately on our right, we come on the entrance to the balcony overlooking the swimming pool. Here are seats for five hundred people with splendid visibility from any portion of the balcony. Straight ahead is the entrance to the balcony overlooking the basketball courts and the track. These bleachers extend the whole length of the Field House and easily seat twelve hundred people. To the left are the stairs which lead down to the ground floor of the building. About two-thirds of this space is taken up by the basketball floor which can accommodate three games at a time. Regular matches are played the length of the floor. There are eight baskets altogether, those used for the big games having backboards of a heavy white substance resembling glass.

The remainder of the floor is made of cinders carefully laid and rolled with the problem of dust reduced to a minimum. Here can take place at one time such events as the shot-put, pole vault and track events. This track can easily take care of as many as six schools in one meet.

The locker and shower rooms are marvels of modern convenience and system. Each boy is assigned a small box locker in which to keep his gym uniform. This is protected by a combination padlock. When he enters the locker room he puts his street clothes in a large locker to which he transfers his padlock. On his return to the locker room he again puts his gym suit in the small locker, transfers the lock, and leaves the large locker empty for the next fellow. All lockers are in connection with an air circulating system which dries out damp clothes before they are next used. The corridor shower is used after each class. This shower is continuous for forty feet with four temperatures of water starting with 90 degrees and ending with 70. This shower accommodates fifty boys per minute.

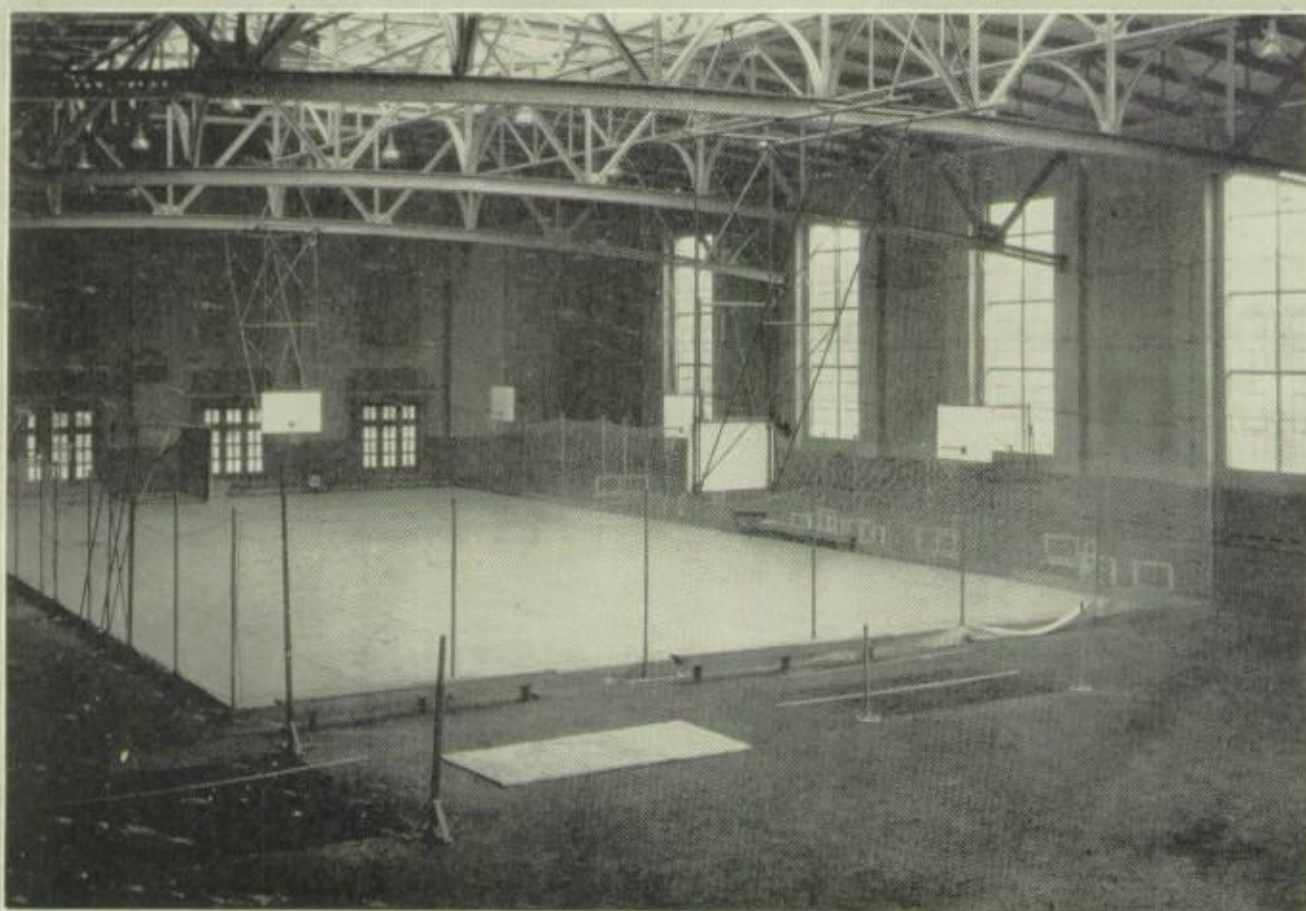

Comfortable offices for the members of the teaching staff have been provided. In connection with these is a physical examination room.

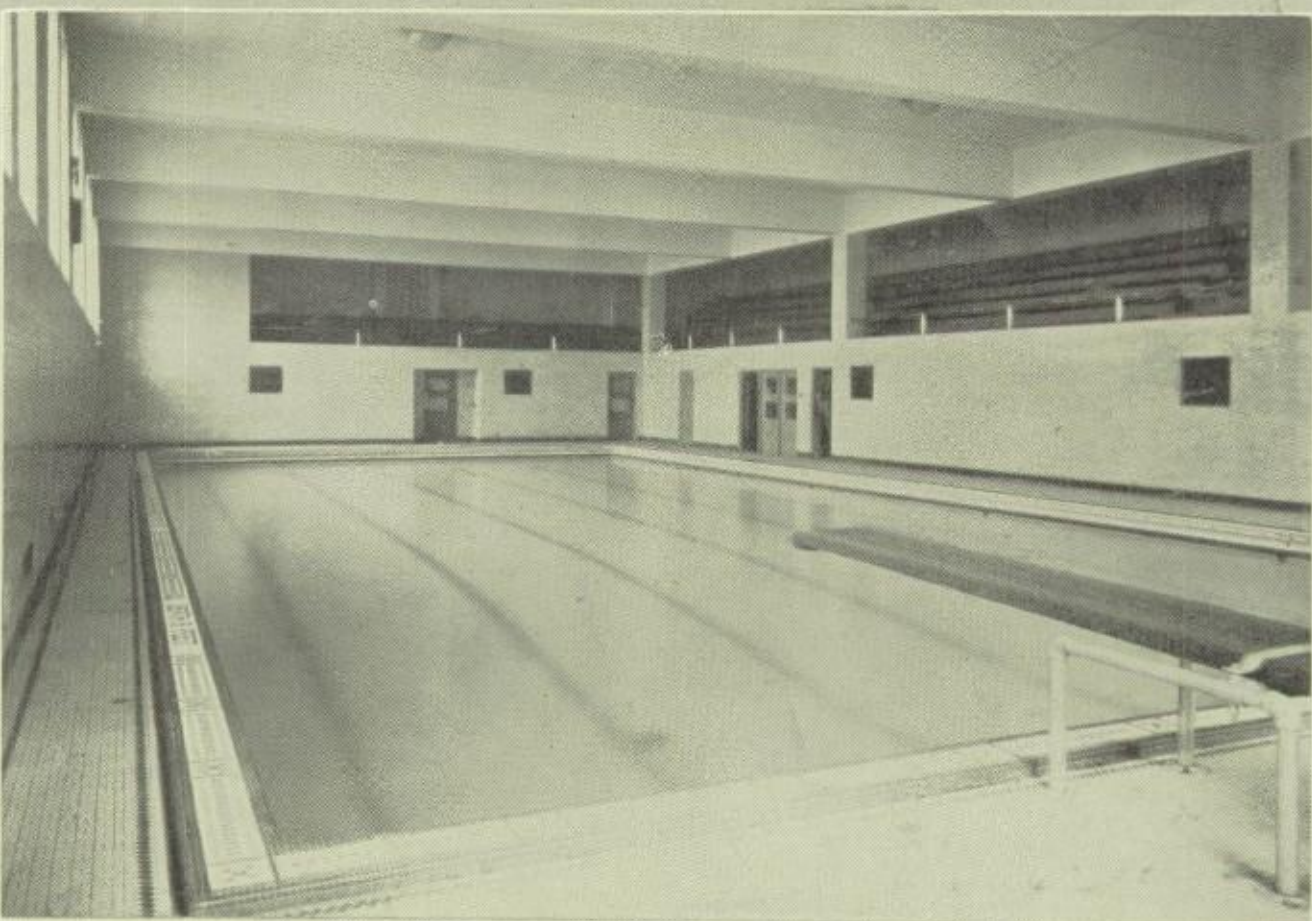

The swimming pool is the crowning glory of the whole unit. It is of a very practical and pleasing design in black and white tile. It is 75 feet long by 35 feet in width. The ceiling of the pool has a special acoustical treatment to prevent echoes and reverberations. A special locker room and showers are provided for the swimming classes. The swimming instructor has his own office which overlooks the pool.

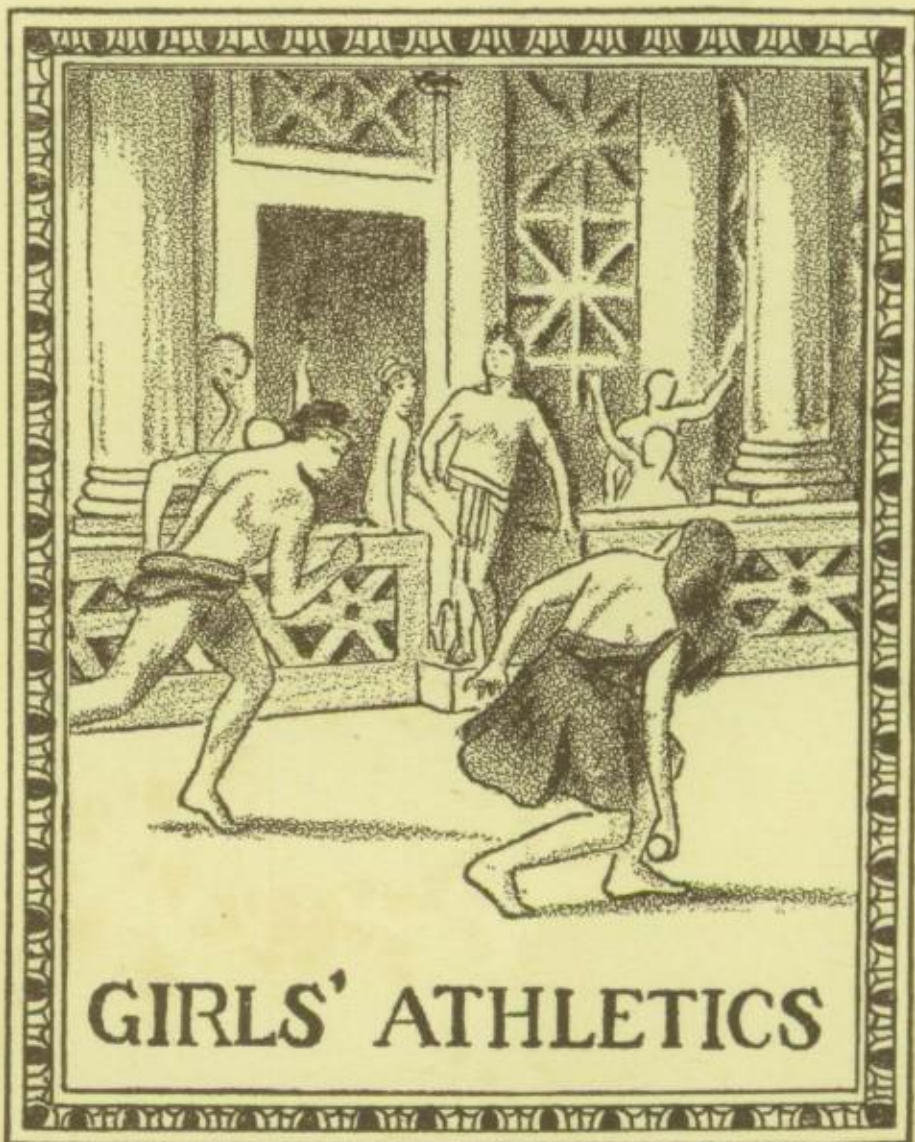

Other features of the building are a clock presented by a former Senior Class, a scoreboard which is also a class gift, wooden bleachers which can be put up to accommodate an overflow crowd, and an immense sky-light to admit all possible sunlight.

The new Field House is indeed an accomplishment to be proud of. The Class of '29 is proud to be the first to use this new equipment, and which it sincerely hopes may fulfill its purpose.

Point Winners

Each girl who has won any of the athletic awards has done so by acquiring the necessary number of points. These points are given for an average of A in Gym, a required number of hours spent in outside activities such as tennis, swimming, or horseback riding, and training rules which must be kept at least two months before each award is given.

Hockey

THE Hockey Tournament was run off under adverse conditions this year. The weather did not permit the teams to follow out the schedule. The old gym was crowded to its fullest extent. The gym department was making preparations to enter the new field house. With all these drawbacks, the tournament came to a climax when the Seniors beat the Juniors, 5-0. While it is logically conceded that the Senior team should win the championship, an earnest effort and an honest struggle was needed to keep up the tradition this year.

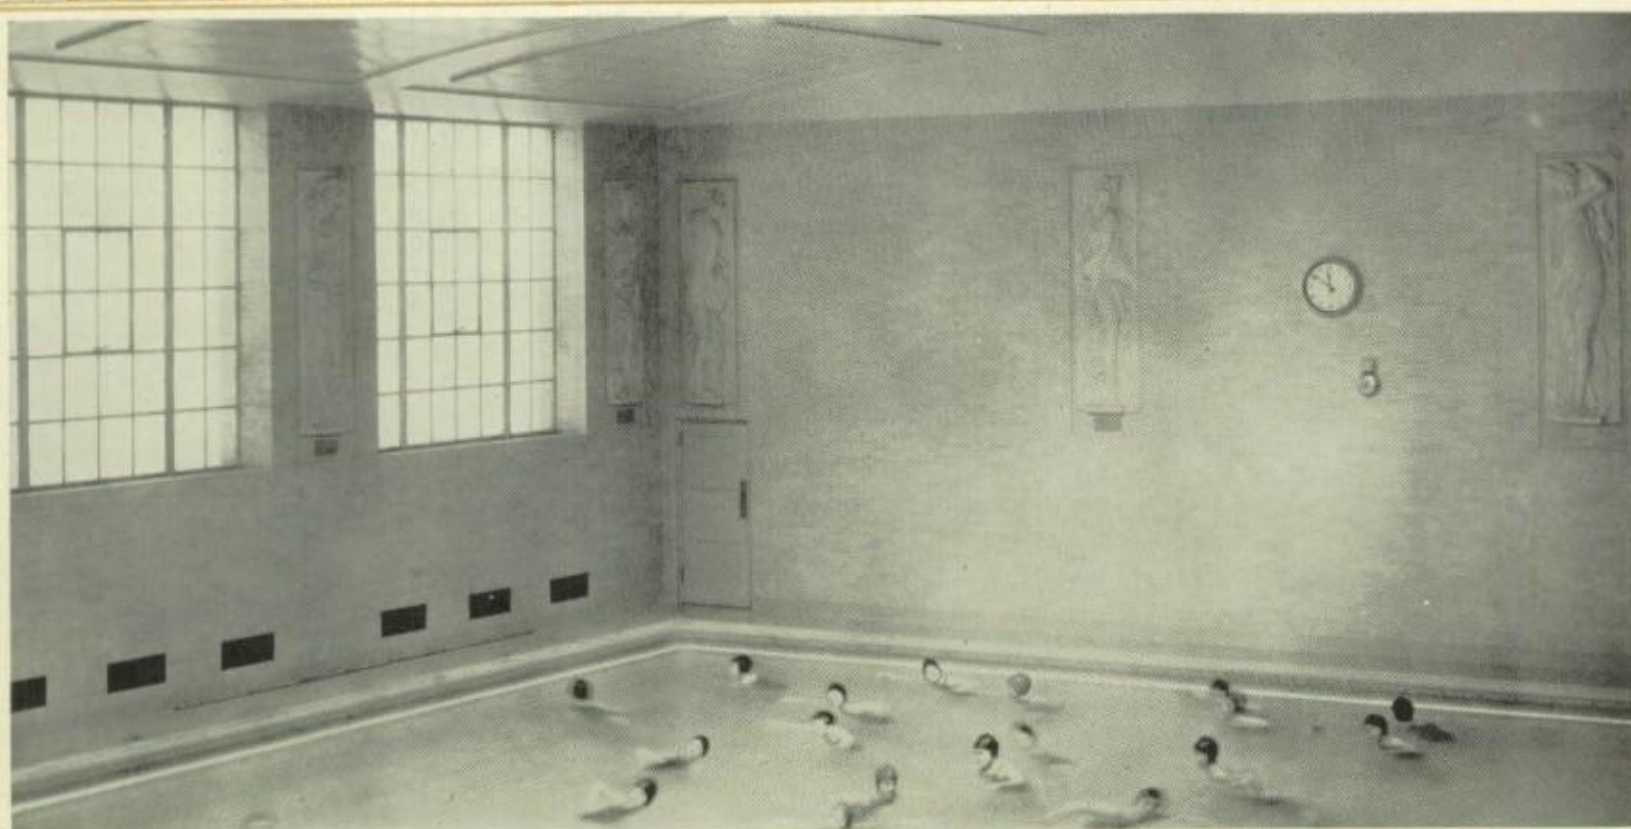

Weichbrodt, Payne.

Basketball

THIS year an entirely new event was tried in connection with basketball. Ten schools, on March 28th, participated in a sport which is called graduation, in which every girl is allowed twenty-four trials to make baskets from eight different positions. Around fifty girls from our school participated in this contest. Edna Payne, a junior, completed eight baskets in sixteen trials, and Margaret Weichbrodt was runner-up with twenty trials. Miss Larson supervised the event. Morton claimed first place and Oak Park second.

A DIVING CLASS

Diving

THE Swimming Department has separated the girls into three groups. Those who have passed the necessary tests are called life-savers. They are either Senior or Junior life-savers, according to their ability to fulfill the requirements. These girls are singled out by their white caps and their life-saving badges. The advanced swimmers wear red caps and beginners blue. Each girl selects a "buddy" who watches her particularly while she is in the water. Every precaution has been taken for the safety and enjoyment of the swimmers.

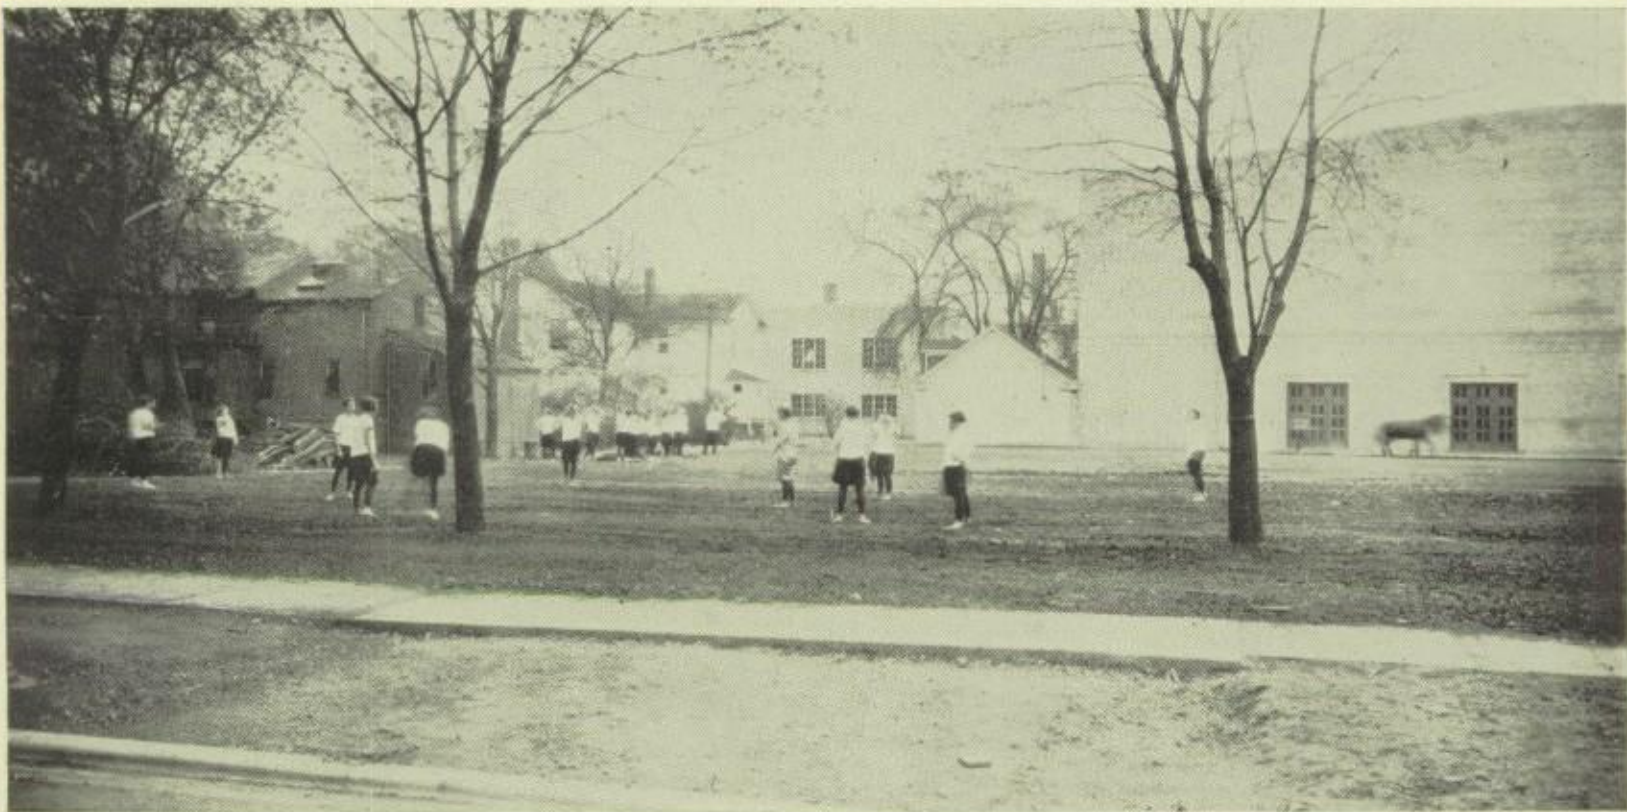

A GAME ON THE SCHOOL COURTS

Tennis

IN order to give more girls the opportunity to play tennis and to play off the tournament matches, class time was given over to this sport. Some girls played tennis merely to improve their strokes and for the game itself, while others used the periods for tournament play. The last few matches necessitated outside time, as the contestants were in different classes. Margaret Weichbrodt was the winner of the 1928 tournament. Jane Fisher and Marjorie Lufkin represented Oak Park successfully at the 1928 play-day at Aurora. Miss Larson coached this sport.

A BASEBALL GAME DURING GYM PERIOD

Baseball

BASEBALL was played in the gym periods this year. Not much was done in afterschool classes as no outdoor field was furnished until late in the season. It was played in Miss Larson's and Mrs. Lyons' classes.

Morton, Proviso, Riverside, Waukegan, Deerfield, Hinsdale, La Grange, Maine and Oak Park sent sixteen representatives to meet on May 18. The girls were divided into four teams. The contests in each sport were played between these teams. The meet was the first of its kind and showed that the girls were as good sports when playing for a team as when supporting a school.

Golf

THE classes in golf were delayed somewhat by the fact that the public courses did not open until late in the season. Practice was held twice a week in good weather. The results of the tournament held in June, 1928, are as follows: First place, Roberta McKay; second, Audrey Juthman; third, Mary Jean Prescott. Their respective scores for nine holes were 42, 49, 50. Helen De Haven, Eleanor Walker, and Edna Petru also turned in good scores. In the playday at Aurora Mary Jean Prescott was successful over the competitors of the other schools. Mrs. Lyons supervises this sport.

The Girls' Gymnasium

AS we entered the new girls' gymnasium we realized that such a building was really beyond comparison. The combination of beauty and utility surpassed our most ambitious expectations. Every space available had its use and was provided with light and comfort. It is hard to realize the number of hours that must have been spent in concentrated effort to make these numerous plans become realities. Yet we are sure that the girls will become increasingly grateful as they realize more and more the advantages and privileges that are theirs.

The entrance leads toward the stairway which divides at the first landing. We ascended the steps on the north and entered a light, cheerful room in which corrective classes meet. At the other end of the hall is the room for the dancing classes. Such a lovely room provides all the atmosphere that the dancers could desire.

Downstairs we entered a room that was filled with all the luxuries that delight a girl. Lovely mirrors above miniature washbowls satisfied her craving for a well-dressed appearance. As she must dress in a few moments, she is grateful for the automatic hair-driers which dry her hair at the same time that she dresses. Each girl has an individual dressing room and her own locker. After the crowded conditions of the former years, such conditions are ideal.

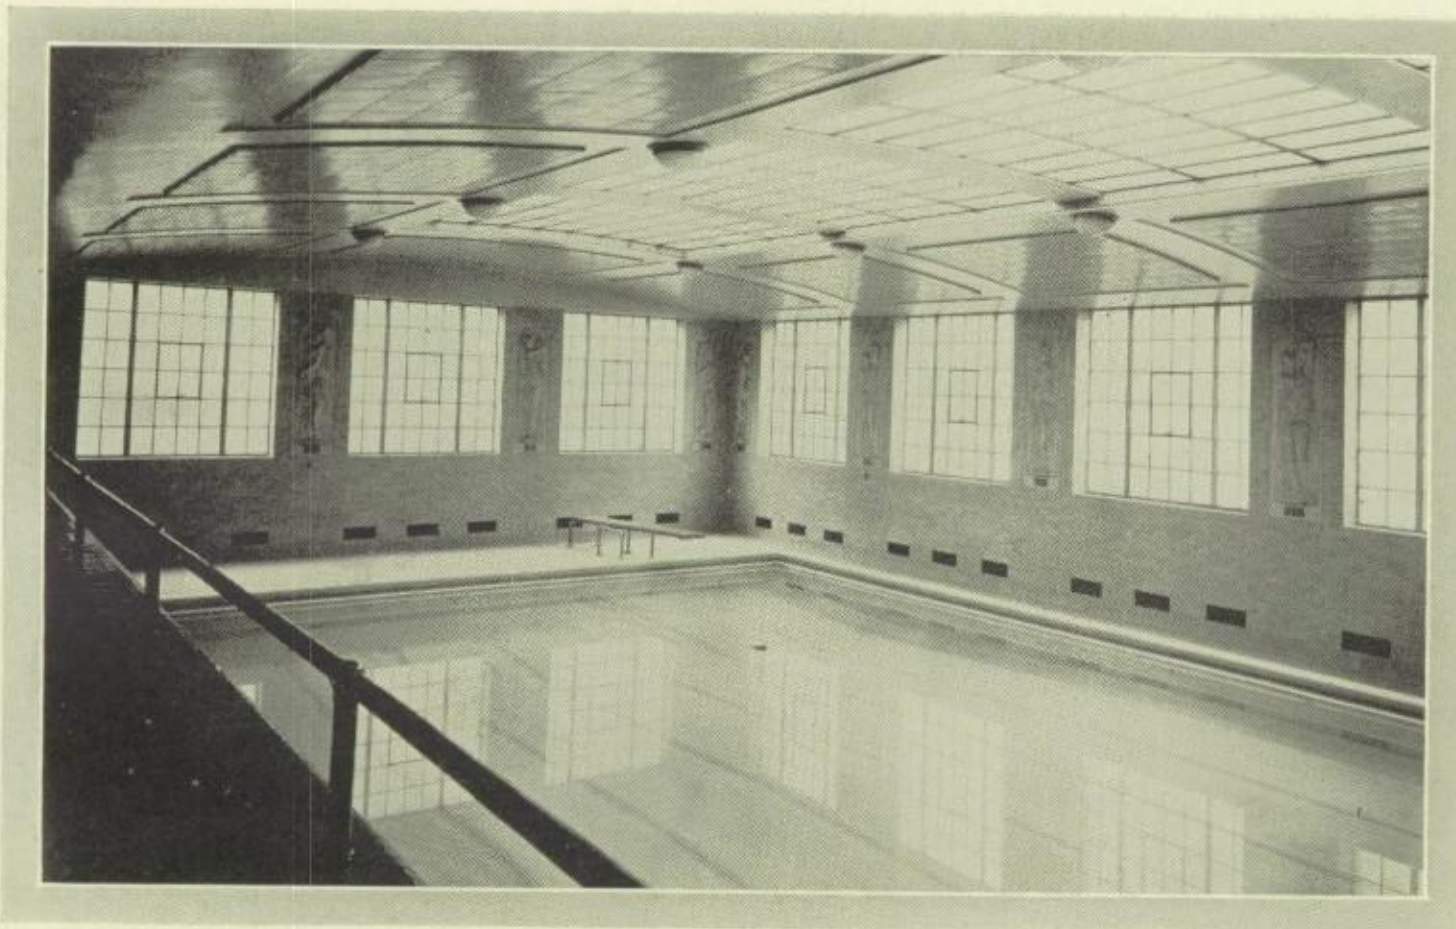

The gym occupies the entire southeast corner of the main floor. The equipment is complete for basketball, baseball, and other indoor sports. On the north side of the room is a balcony which will take care of the spectators. Large windows on the east and south sides furnish plenty of light and air. The five-day gym classes certainly are well accommodated.

The pride of every girl is the swimming pool. To dive into its blue-green waters and to swim is, in the opinion of many, the most ideal way of spending a gym period. The lovely nymphs in the panels seem envious of such pleasure, for they in their graceful positions, are never to be permitted such enjoyment.

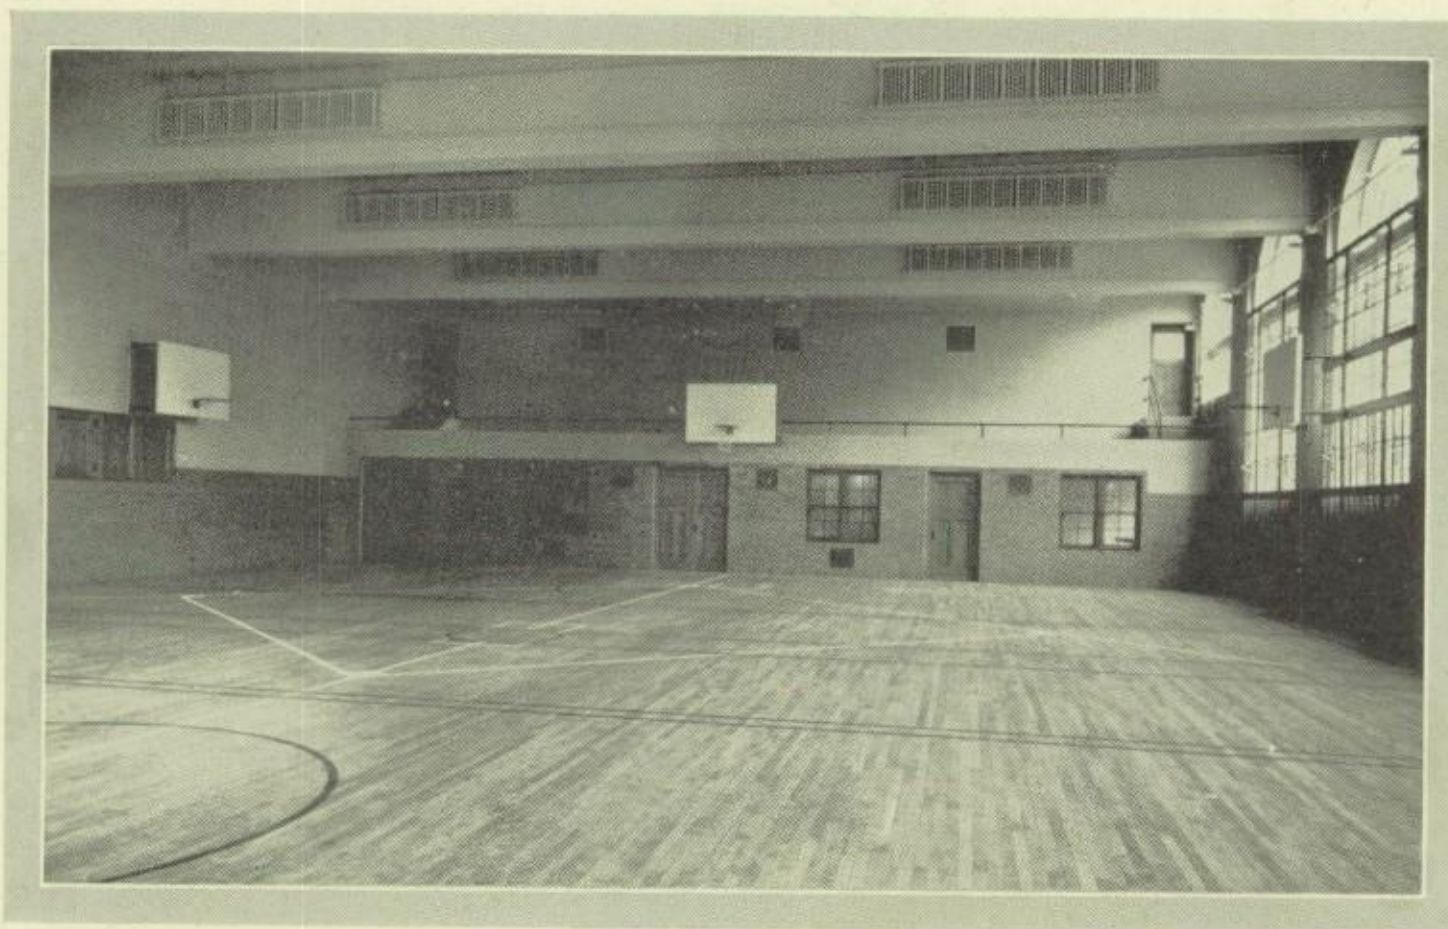

The ceiling has been so constructed that the sounds are deadened, yet the room is never quiet when the pool is being used. The balcony on the east side permits visitors to enjoy the pool without being showered. Life preservers are ready for immediate use, but each girl is already protected by another girl whom she selects as her "buddy." Life guards are present in each group also. The swimming instructor is present either in her office from where she has complete view of the pool, or near the pool itself. Swimming is new to girls' gymnastic curriculum, but it is proving to be one of the most popular sports.

One inspection does not reveal the marvels of our new gymnasium. Only after repeated visits does one begin to comprehend the privileges that are ours. As years go on, increasing good health and good sportsmanship will speak the gratitude of the girls.

Prospective Dental Students

Loyola University College of Arts and Sciences offers a pre-dental year of especial interest to prospective dental students. The work is given part in the downtown college, 28 North Franklin Street and part in the dental department, the Chicago College of Dental Surgery.

In addition to the required subjects, the course offers two subjects of a dental nature which will enable the student to enter the four-year dental course with thirty-two semester hours of college credit.

The next session will open October 1, 1929.
